

Public Comment
CFSAC | December 2014
Camille Carswell

This meeting's agenda ignores the most important issues facing us right now. The systematic evidence review draws dangerous conclusions about the effectiveness of CBT and GET. The NIH has refused both of your recommendations from the June meeting. And the late notice of this meeting and public comment registration is an illustration of the disregard HHS has for ME/CFS patients. CFSAC members, I plead with you to speak out on behalf of the people you agreed to serve. Tell HHS we need more funding for biomedical research. Tell HHS to make ME/CFS patients a priority